CHINESE SCOFF AT JAPANESE CLAIM THAT ONLY 100 DIED IN WOOSUNG LANDING

Shanghai, Aug. 25 (8.53 a.m.).

Shanghai passed a comparatively quiet night. It was broken only by the occasional boom of gunfire, but the usual aerial activity is expected this morning.

Japanese warships opened the day with the usual shelling of the Chinese positions in Pootung. This operation has now become a daily fore-runner to major land hostilities.

No Chinese activity is discernible at this early hour but after last night's visitation from a solitary Chinese plane the Idzumo, the Japanese flagship, has again changed her position in the Whangpoo, moving a little down-ri

RETAKEN

Shanghai, Aug. 25. The Chinese military authorities announced this morning that the defending troops in the Woosung area had reoccupied Lotien following a bitter clash.

It was stated that 700 Japanese broke through the Chinese lines at this point earlier in the prolonged operations, piercing the trench system near Chuenshanchen and reaching Lotien by way of the Mutso Bridge.

The communique adds Lotien was lost as a result of weakness in the Chinese lines, from which troops had been sent to reinforce hard-pressed units in the Lion Forest. Later, the Chinese returned to Lotien in force and drove the Japanese as (8.53 a.m.). The officially announced Japanese estimate of 100 soldiers killed during Monday's landing operations at Woosung is ridiculed by the Chinese, who claim that terrific loss of life among the Japanese was caused by the explusion of land mines.

The mines were set off under the feet of the marching men as they moved towards their objectives, the Chinese declare. The Chinese place the Japanese casualties as at least

Meanwhile, in Shanghai itself naval and military experts continue their attempts to ascertain the source of the missile which wrecked the big departmental stores on Nanking Road with such terrible loss of life and property. The police are rapidly clearing the littered streets for resumption of traffic.

The costly nature of the damage can be gauged from the fact that the Building, (Tel. 30241) or to St. plate glass destroyed in the Wing On Stephen's College, Stanley, Hong store alone is worth over $100,000. HIT-OVER THE HEAD

COMPENSATION IN ONE DOLLAR INSTALMENTS

How a woman's lies caused a man's skull to be fractured, was related at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when Chau Hok, 31, market foki, was charged before Mr. K. M. A. Barnett with causing grievous bodily harm to Yip Chu-chuen, 22, shop fold, by striking him on the head with a piece of firewood on

Mr. J. M. D'Almada Remedios appeared for Chau, and pleaded guilty. He asked for a lenient view to be taken as Chau had told him that he had been acting in self defence, Yip attacking him first with a bamboo pole. Chau had also been in custody for more than two weeks. Detective Sergeant John Headridge said the complainant worked in a-greecry shop in Argyle Street. About 5.40 p.m. on July 24, a woman came up and bought two cents worth of bean curd. She returned a few minutes later, saying the curd was bad, and demanded repayment. Yip, who was serving other customers, told her to wait until he had finished, but she reached across the counter and took two cents from the money

Comes Back with Husband

The foki asked her, to show him what she had taken but she refused, whereupon he walked around the counter to the door of the shop towards her. She then struck him in the eye with a police whistle, and went away.

About 10 minutes later she came back with a man she said was her husband. This man said the woman had complained of being assaulted by the fold, and requested him to step out of his shop. This the foki would not do, and after a while the pair walked away. Later on, they returned, with two other men, including the defendant. Once more, the foki was asked to come outside, but again he refused. Defendant then walked into the not do so, he picked up a piece of at 3.30 p.m. to welcome Com- December 18.47/48 hospital where he stayed for some

The trouble-making woman and her husband could not be found, having fied from their lodgings, but defendant had been arrested on information on August 8.

Defendant was leniently dealt with, being fined $25 or one month, and ordered to pay $10 compensation in monthly instalments of $1.

Apprentice Beaten

For beating an apprentice under 19, shop master, was fined $50 or six weeks by Mr. E. Himsworth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. The apprentice, Wong Cheung, aged 15, bared his back in court, revealing several large weals. Inspector J. R. McWalter said defendant made brass ornaments at his shop, and about 2 p.m. on Monday, he saw the apprentice using the wrong hammer on a piece of brass-

Flying into a rage, So took the boy up to the cocklost, and thrashed him, keeping him in the loft until about 10 o'clock that night, when he managed to escape. He went to his aunt, and she brought the matter before the police.

Chung Chi-cheung, 22-year-old former cabin-boy of the Chinese Maritime Customs cruiser Cheung Keng, was yesterday at the Criminal Sessions found guilty of the murder of Captain Douglas Lorne Campbell, sentenced to death by the Chlef Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor.

Mr. George She, instructed by Mr. K. F. Wong, of G. K. Hall-Brutton ing, Mrs. R. G. (Anna) Gillosple. and Company, appeared for accused, that deceased had killed the Captain for Mr. Pethick. while of unsound mind,

.The murder occurred on board the cruiser on January 11 last, while the vessel was outside the Colony's waters, and it was alleged that defendant, after shooting the Captain, shot and seriously wounded the Chief Officer, and then turned the weapon on himself.

The Crown was represented by Gerald Sydney, Tel: 21565. Mr. J. Whyatt, Assistant Attorneyand M. A. Xavier.

CHURCHILL WARNS ON NAVAL GUNS

Newest Warships Inferior"

(By WILLIAM BARKLEY)

Risks run by Great Britain, the first naval Power in the world, in making international agreements on limitation of naval strength, were strenuously emphasised by Mr. Winston Churchill in the House of Commons last month.

He supported, on general grounds, the London Naval Treaty between Britain, U.S. and France, which Germany and Russia joined last Saturday, but he argued that it is never to Britain's advantage to make treaties which hamper our freedom to design the ships we need.

'Mr. Churchill fastened on the point that Britain, the United States, Germany and France were all agreed that the maximum gun in any of their navies should be the 14-inch. When Japan refused to be a party to the agreement, the United States announced that they also must have i power to build a 16-inch gun into their ships.

To his mind that meant that the foreign Powers meant to arm their ships with 16-inch guns because he! assumed that America knows what! Japan is doing,

He emphasised that the five new ; battleships which we are now building, two laid down last year and three this year, have 14-inch guns as their biggest cannon.

"A REPROACH"

"These battleships will," he said, "be magnificent ships. Under this agreement no new battleship can be built above 35,000 tons. So far the Admiralty have taken the view that it is impossible to build 16-inch guns into a 35,000-ton hull. Suppose that the German, French, Italian and American naval engineers discover that they can solve this problem what will be the position of the Royal Navy who are forbidden for five years to construct a vessel larger than 35,000 tons?

"It will be something of a reproach to the Royal Navy that our five new battleships, built at a cost of £45,000,000 to be the basis of our sea power for twenty-five years, ahead, are definitely inferior to the contemporary vessels which in war they would have to meet."

Mr. Churchill, who knows naval matters from beginning to end, therefore urged Mr. Duff Cooper, the First Lord, to make alternative designs for the battleships.

He pleaded with him at least to make one experimental gun-mounting for a sixteen-inch gun so that if Foreign designers succeeded where we failed the British Navy could swiftly alter the gun equipment of the new battleships from fourteeninch to sixteen-inch.

He got in direct touch with Admiral von Tirpitz, and asked what was the truth of German naval construction, to the defence of his work, Von Tirpitz gave Churchill certain! assurances.

"The assurances which Admiral von Tirpitz gave me," said Mr. Churchill. "were, I am bound to say, in every sense true,"

They banged vanced and the matter is in hand."

The new treaty, which the House of Commons approved without a division, secures qualitative limitation of naval building among U.S.A., Germany, France and Britain. Beat Kent While Yorkshire Draw To Regain Leadership

ALL-IMPORTANT FINAL STAGES START TO-DAY

THRILLING END TO THE SEASON

The county cricket championship in still an excitingly open contest. Yesterday Middlesex regained the leadership when they beat Kent and Yorkshire could win only first innings points from Surrey. Both teams have two more matches to play. Yorkshire oppose Sussex at Eastbourne and Hampshire at Bournemouth; Middlesex have to meet Notts at Nottingham and Surrey at Lord's.

Although Yorkshire made Surrey follow-on, they could not force an outright decision. This was due to Fishlock and Gregory who batted splendidly to score a century apiece in the second innings. Fishlock also enjoyed the distinction of hitting up two centuries in the same match.

Middlesex just scraped home against Kent, but the losers made a gallant attempt to score 430 in the fourth innings, failing only by 75 runs. F. G. H. Chalk the young amateur compiled 107 and Leslie Ames contributed 90. However, R. W. V. Robins put in some effective bowling and his 5 for 40 eventually won the game for Middlesex.

FIRST OPENING STAND OF 100 FOR ENGLAND SINCE 1935

(By Frank Thorogood)
England 358 for 9; New Zealand to bat.

Manchester weather has wrecked many a Test match at Old Trafford, and in the early morning it looked as if history was about to repeat an old and melancholy tale. Rain fell before and after breakfast, and at the moment fixed for the opening of the match conditions overhead appeared to be savag y eloquent of an approaching thunderstorm.

Yet by some miracle of grace it, was possible to begin at ten minutes to twelve and thereafter we had but two trivial interruptions. Except for one 'short period' after lunch, the To commence with there was every light was never good and before the promise of a splendid season but the interval it was almost bad enough

Wooderson's Great Run At Ibrox

JUST MISSES A WORLD RECORD

Before 50,000 wildly enthusiastic speciators, Sydney Wooderson, the English mile champion, broke both the British and the Scottish ullcomers' records for three-quarters of a mile at the Rangers' F.C. sports in Glasgow on Aug. 7.

The Blackheath Harrier's time of min, 0.9 sec, was only three-tenths of a second short of the world's record, which he would most assuredly have beaten but for the adverse effect of a miniature gale.

Records toppled over by this wonderful judge of running pace were Jack Lovelock's British figures of 3 mln. 2.2sec., made at Stamford Bridge in 1032, and the Scottish allcomers' best of 3 min. 3.8sec., created by Ray Watson (U.S.A.) at the Rangers' sports in 1928.

Wooderson conceded starts as follow: R. H. Thomas (10), B. C. Eeles (12), F. Close (18), and E. E. Lunsdale (21), while Bob Graham, the Scottish champion, accompanied him on the scratch mark.

ESCAPE FROM SUDDEN DEATH

This poem was written by Julian Bell, whose death in the Spanish War was reported recently

DUT the grey skeleton may stand more close D Than sixty years a-cupboard; flying chance May jolt her shuttles to a swifter dance. And Death be nearer than we could suppose. The other day I saw his face.

True but for half a moment's space, But now a shadow's at my back, and grows As if a guttering candle burned apace. Thinking of you, it had been hard to go To the damp worms, and solitary sleep: But were you gone? How little I've to keep You in my mind. How little do I know.

As ploughman near some ancient mound Have an old treasure found, Straight buried it again, and doing so Scarce called to mind gold glimmering underA handful of poor memories, there is all: Oh, well enough, if only I not knew The more profound, hidden extent of you. My knowledge mocks whatever I recall.

Could we but snatch a hasty spring. And snare the god, not yet a-wing. Hear nightingales before the cuckoos call. Hear to brave primroses the skylarks sing. Then let us fill a summer with delight Forestalling slower time, and swifter fate, And make the flowery pomp our subject state, And garland memories both for day and night.

Pan and Apollo let us pray For the wild rose and wreathed bay, And, when we've spent our gifts in the gods'

Attentively to ponder these scientific assertions may be as intellectually bracing as a cold douche.

It is an engrossing experience to follow Mr. Casson on his shrewd researches into the dim and distant past. No Sherlock Holmes fiction can furnish anything like the meticulous skill and courageous intuition that these archaeological sleuths display in unravelling, amidst the dust of unnumbered ce: turies, the faint clues of human history.

Yet I doubt whether Mr. Casson's book will equal the best-seller circulation of the latest cheap detective thriller. It is comic what the groundlings miss in art, literature, and life. People will queue up for some lady novelist's callow improprieties who would shup full-blooded old Seutonius like a plague. Perhaps it is just as well. But certainly the High Brows can afford a quiet chuckle over the imbecilities of the Thick

Progress Intermittent

The oldest detected experiment in civilisation, erroneously called Progress) was made by the Sumerlans in the Tigris-Euphrates valley, It endured, before being extinguished by the Mongol invasion of three centuries after the Arab conquest of Persia, for four thousand years. Compare that security of tenure with the eight hundred years of Greece, the nine hundred of Rome, and the thousand of Byzantium. Mr. Casson shows us how twice the march of civilisation has been arrested and put back by a Dark Age, first after the collapse of the Hittite Empirepartly due to neglect of sea power. by the way-and then after the fall of the Roman Empire.

The plain moral is that: "Progress is an intermittent phenomenon, and not a continual move forwards." He has also a comment that should be taken to heart by a certain brand of emotional pacifist. "The pure paci- Passenger & Freight Agents:fist view is one which, if held originally by the Sumerians, would have led to the complete destruction of their experiment, and the reversion of their mode of life to a more Telephone 28031 brutal and savage state."

French Concerned Over Position

Paris, Aug. 24. The Italian victories in the international air race threaten to upset the forty-hour week in French aviation plants.

Le Temps has demanded "an objective inquiry into the state of our aviation." It draws attention to the point that the Government is solely responsible, due to the nationalisation programme. The Navy official, M. Cesar Campinchi, in a speech at St. Nazaire, drew attention to the fact that Italian plane manufacturers were aided by n sixty-nine-hour week, whereas compared with £300,340,012 at the French production has been slowed down, leading to the belief that the Cabinet will make an effort to chers in their way, however, and August 21 was £884,535,000, which secure an agreement with the trade

The press generally states that the French air position has been "badly compromised" as a result of the outcome of the air race .-United Press.

Grave For International Settlement's Safety

ALL AMERICANS WARNED FOR ACTIVE SERVICE; BRITISH ORDER GUNS FROM H.K.

May Have To Face Desperate Chinese Army In Retreat

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

Shanghai, Aug. 25.

Continuing grave concern for the fate of the International Settlement in the event that withdrawing forces try to rush the barricades and attempt to force an entrance, is causing the foreign authorities, quietly and effectively, without "getting the wind up," generally to take all precautions.

At the suggestion of the U.S. Marines' commanding officer all able-bodied Americans not at present performing emergency police or military duty have been approached regarding their willingness to shoulder arms and take their places in the American defence sector, which is 7,000 zig-zagging yards long. It would be most difficult to hold against a desperate rush of troops facing annihilation on all sides, unless every available effective stands firm behind the sandbags and barbed wire.

The British authorities are also gravely concerned for the Settlement in the event of the Japanese "big push" confronting the concessions with the necessity of repulsing retreating Chinese. Brigadier A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, commandant of the British forces, the strongest in Shanghai, after a conference with other foreign commanders, has ordered artillery from Hongkong. - number of batteries and the size of guns sought is being kept a closely guarded secret.

Five divisions of Central Government troops defending the Nankow-Huailai area are now in a. precarious position following the capture of Kalgan on August 22 by a fast column of the Kwantung Army from Bolonor. This column is now reported to be pushing rapidly towards Hsuanhua in order to attack the Central Government troops from the rear.

A Japanese spokesman claims that the Japanese have won successes in the Nankow Pass area, where the main offensive has allegedly reached the Great Wall through the hills west of and parallel to the pass. The advance was only accomplished after very heavy hand-to-hand fighting, in driving rain, up and down the mountain-sides.

Casualties are believed to have been very high, owing to the continued arrival of Japanese wounded at Peiping.

The Japanese claim to be driving the Chinese from the Great Wall into the Hunilai Plain. However, a United Press correspondent on Monday observed heavy fighting within five miles west and east of Nankow Pass itself, along the footbills, indicating the Japanese announcement of successes is possibly premature,

Chinese Retake Lotien In Woosung Battle

Shanghai, Aug. 25 (8.53 a.m.).

Shanghai passed a comparatively quiet night. It was broken only by the occasional boom of gunfire, but the usual aerial activity is expected this morning.

Japanese warships opened the day with the usual shelling of the Chinese positions in Pootung. This operation has now become a daily fore-runner to major land hostilities.

No Chinese activity is discernible at this early hour but after last night's visitation from a solitary Chinese plane the Idzumo, the Japanese flagship, has again changed her position in the Whangpoo, moving a little down-river.

The noise of other planes overhead, presumed to be Chinese, was heard by many residents during the night, but there was no bombing. It was one of the most peaceful nights since the outbreak of the fighting .-

DO YOUNG DOCTORS KNOW THEIR JOB?

Am Uneasy About Them

-B.M.A. President

Belfast, July 29.

The newly qualified G.P.—the general practitioner whose business it is to cope with your ailments and mine-was criticised at the British Medical Association's conference here to-night.

Questions about his ability to practise immediately on qualifying were asked; doubts about his intentions to continue his studies were raised; and the new president, Professor R. J. Johnstone, the Belfast! gynaecologist, himself "uneasy" over the young doctor.

He suggested that a panel practice; might be giving him an assured income too soon and taking away, his incentive to study.

Sald Professor Johnstone: "Some day we may see the medical practitioner going back to his old school, or to another school. for a month, for three months, even for a sabbatical (seventh) year, both to learn and to teach.

"But leaving aside the difficult question of interference by one practitioner with the patients - of another, there are still many administrative problems to be overcome before that can happen.

"With good will on both sides this should not be insoluble; but it will, I am afraid, be a long time before administrators may be brought to believe that a panel of doctors is just as efficient and reliable as, and gives no more trouble than, a whole-time

"Perhaps in the future all difficulties will be solved by the establishment of a State medical service. Like good democrats we shall always oppose it.

"Every fresh instalment of social when that has finally arrived we stances as the result:may say, goodbye to the general practitioner as we know him.

"He is still with us, however, and how does he compare with his predecessor of a generation back? "His equipment is undoubtedly better, he has for the service of his patients a store of knowledge and an acquaintance with technical re-

Padre Reveals Marvels Of Spiritual Healing

Bradford, July 22. THE -Rev. Leslie D. Weatherhead, minister of the City Temple, London, to-day held the Methodist Conference here spellbound as he described a series of cases of spiritual healing.

After såying that silent prayer and public health legislation, every was offered every night at the new chapter opened in the volume City Temple for particular indinearer to the totalitarian ideal and viduals, he gave the following in-doctor...You know what children are - always falling and cutting their knees and grazing their hands. I don't regard such things as trifles: I had a young brother who died of blood-poisoning. Tell me, is there no efficient antiseptic I can apply at once with perfect confidence?

'Dettoi' is such an antiseptic-dangerous only to germs. It is a clean, pleasant fluid-non-poisonous and non-staininghighly efficient as a germ-killer. You can apply it freely (there are directions on every bottle). Remember, the smallest break in the skin is a wide-open gateway for the germs of septic infection. Disinfect cuts and scratches at once with 'Dettol.' The way to prevent blood-poisoning is to kill the germs that cause it.

Use 'Dettol' promptly in time of accident Your Chemist has it.

"Pagliacel" (King's Theatre, today) .- While Richard Tauber is singing this film is entrancing, but beyond this it has several shortcomings. Nevertheless Tauber compensaies for them with his irreprenchable rendering of the many famous arias, and taken by and large, it is a film of rich entertainment.

"Love In A Bungalow" (Queen's Theatre, to-day).-Nan Grey, a comparative newcomer to the world of film stardom gives a very pleasing performance in this gay, inconsequential domestic comedy. Kent Taylor is refreshing, and the whole thing is lightly fantastic, but wholly enjoyable.

"Parole Racket" (Alhambra Theatre, to-day).-In direct contrast is is seeking advice on any matter conthis serious-minded document which sets out to expose yet another of America's exploited administrations, once with-The story is told with conviction, with Rosaling Keith, Paul Kelly, G.P.O. SEQUEL TO LOSS OF JUNK

INSURANCE POLICY CLAIM

Arising out of the sinking of trading junk near Sor Chau Island, a claim for $9,000 on an insurance policy taken out in respect of cargoes shipped on her was brought before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholi Mac-Gregor, in the Supreme Court this morning,

Plaintiffs were the Hop Fat firm and they sued the Canton Insurance Office, Ltd. for the value of 750 bags. of manure and 150 bags of cement.

The Hon. Mr. Leo D'Almada, Jar., instructed by Mr. M. A. da Silva, appeared for plaintiffs, and the defendant company was represented by Mr. H. C. Macnamara, on the instructions of Mr. W. A. Mackinlay, of Mr. D'Almada said the claim was on an insurance policy taken out by his clients with the defendant company in respect of 150 bags of cement and 750 sacks of manure shipped on a Junk which had foundered. The premium on the policy had in fact not been paid.

The plaintiff firm consisted of two partners, Ho Shiu-nam and Leung Chiu. Ho was more or less a sleeping partner until fairly recently, the management of the concern being left in the hands of Leung and one Lai Fing-kwan, who was the manager. Shortly after the sinking of the junk, Ho had certain trouble with these two men, with the result that they were not now available to give evidence.

Plaintiffs were merchants, and dealt fairly largely with the Lin Fat firm of Macao. Sometime towards the end of December, 1935, an order was received from them for the goods mentioned, and the terms of payment agreed upon were $5,000 on account and the balance to be paid on delivery. On January 3, the cargo was put on board the junk, which was towed by a launch out of Hongkong at 5 p.m. that day. On arrival at Capsumun Pass, the ves els, which were then alongside one another, separated, the junk following about 100 feet behind and being towed by a rope from the launch, which was going from three to four knots.

JUNK FOUNDERS

Continuing, Counsel raid that all went well with the voyage until a point somewhere near the Sor Chau Island was reached, when rough weather was encountered. weather was so rough that both vessels shipped water. The corking at the bottom of the junk was dislodged by the severe pitching and rolling and, unable to cope with the inrush of water, her master signalled to the coxswain of the launch to turn the object being to seek shelter in an inlet a little the east of Sor Chau and the junk foundered some two avaction plants. miles to the south of the Island.

Further, the master himself had suffered personal loss, and the junk was not insured.

An alternative plea that the juni was not scaworthy had also been put. in by the defence. The case for the plaintiffs was that the junk was seaworthy and that her sinking was due to one of the perlls of the sea. She was ten years old and was bought in 1933 by the master for $7,000.

Three days of the outcome of the air race .-later, the defendant company sent United Press. out a diver, who spent some two hours in locating the wreck.

Counsel then went on to say that it seemed fair to assume that nothing surpicious was found because, if there had been any, an earlier attempt to salvage the junk would have been made. As it was, the junk was not salvaged until 40 days. after she had foundered, when she was brought to the Kwong Fat Loong ship-yard. On March 11, the junk was sold for $80 to the owner of the yard, who subsequently re-sold it piecement for $700.

FIRST OPENING STAND OF 100 FOR ENGLAND SINCE 1935

(By Frank Thorogood) England 358 for 9; New Zealand to bat.

Manchester weather has wrecked many a Test match at Old Trafford, and in the early morning it looked as if history was about to repeat an old and melancholy tale. Rain fell before and after breakfast, and at the moment fixed for the opening of the match conditions overhead appeared to be savagely eloquent of an approaching thunderstorm.

JUST MISSES A WORLD RECORD

Before 50,000 wildly enthusiastic spectators, Sydney Wooderson, the English mile champion, broke both the British and the Scottish allcomers' records for three-quarters of a mile at the Rangers' F.C. sports in Glasgow on Aug. 7.

The Blackheath Harrier's time of min, 0.9 sec, was only three-tenths of a second short of the world's record, which he would most assuredly have beaten but for the adverse effect of a miniature gale.

Records toppled over by this wonderful judge of running pace were Jack Lovelock's British figures of 3 min. 2.2sec., made at Stamford Bridge in 1932, and the Scottish allcomers' best of 3 min. 3.8sec., created by Ray Watson (U.S.A.) at the Rangers' sports in 1928.

Wooderson conceded starts as follow: R. H. Thomas (10), B. C. Eeles (12), F. Close (18), and E. E. Lansdale (21), while Bob Graham, the Scottish champion, accompanied him on the scratch mark.

HE HAD NO ONE TO PULL HIM OUT

ESCAPE FROM SUDDEN

This poem was written by Julian Bell, whose death in the Spanish War was reported recently

DUT the grey skeleton may stand more close D Than sixty years a-cupboard: flying chance May jolt her shuttles to a swifter dance, And Death be nearer than we could suppose. The other-day I saw his face.

True but for half a moment's space, But now a shadow's at my back, and grows As if a guttering candle burned apace. Thinking of you, it had been hard to go To the damp worms, and solitary sleep; But were you gone? How little I've to keep You in my mind. How little do I know

As ploughman near some ancient mound Have an old treasure found, Straight buried it again, and doing so Scarce called to mind gold glimmering underground.

A handful of poor memories, there is all: Oh, well enough, if only I not knew The more profound, hidden extent of you. My knowledge mocks whatever I recall.

Could we but snatch a hasty spring, And snare the god, not yet a-wing, Hear nightingales before the cuckoos call, Hear to brave primroses, the skylarks sing. Then let us fill a summer with delight Forestalling slower time, and swifter fate, And make the flowery pomp our subject state, And garland memories both for day and night.

Pan and Apollo let us pray For the wild rose and wreathed bay, And, when we've spent our gifts in the gods'

Look back upon a happy yesterday.

Attentively to ponder these scientific assertions may be as intellectually bracing as a cold douche.

It is an engrossing experience to follow Mr. Casson on his shrewd researches into the dim and distant past. No Sherlock Holmes fiction can furnish anything like the meticulous skill and courageous intuition that these archaeological sleuths display in unravelling, amidst the dust of unnumbered centuries, the faint clues of human history. Yet I doubt whether Mr. Casson's book will equal the best-seller circulation of the latest cheap detective thriller. It is comic what the groundlings miss in art, literature, and life. People will queue up for some lady novelist's callow improprieties who would shun full-blooded old Seutonius like a plague. Perhaps it is just as well. But certainly the High Brows can afford a quiet chuckle over the imbecilities of the Thick Ears.

Progress Intermittent

The oldest detected experiment in civilisation, erroneously called Progress, was made by the Sumerlans in the Tigris-Euphrates valley. It endured, before being extinguished by the Mongol invasion of three centuries after the Arab conquest of Persia, for four thousand years. Compare that security of tenure with the eight hundred years of Greece, the nine hundred of Rome, and the thousand of Byzantium. Mr. Casson shows us how twice the march of civilisation has been arrested and put back by a Dark Age, first after the collapse of the Hittite Empirepartly due to neglect of sea power, by the way-and then after the fall of the Roman Empire.

The plain moral is that: "Progress is an intermittent phenomenon, and not a continual move forwards." He has also a comment that should be taken to heart by a certain brand of emotional pacifist. "The pure paci- Passenger & Freight Agents:-fist view is one which, if held oliginally by the Sumerlans, would have led to the complete destruction of their experiment, and the reversion of their mode of life to a more Telephone 28031

Futile Hunt For Work

Roosevelt Cannot Help Marchers

Washington, Aug. 24. The Government can give no help to the Workers' Alliance.

To-day 2,500 bedraggled men, women and children encamped on the mud flats near the Lincoln Memorial for the past 48 hours, delivered a letter to President Roosevelt, asking him to use his executive powers to reinstate former W. P. A. workers who could not find private employment. The whole party marched through the capitol streets in an orderly procession, four abreast, waving the blue Workers' Alliance flags and singing their union songs, on the way to the White House.

An automobile halted the marchers in their way, however, and diverted them to the Labour Department auditorium where they heard a message from the President: "I regret it is not within our power to grant your request." The marchers plan to disperse to their homes,-United Press.
